

IT & TELECOMMUNICATIONS TRANSLATION

More and more, companies want to expand their market and interact with their customers. They are aware that consumers and customers want to communicate in their own language. To grow in the field of information technology and telecommunications, it is essential the translation is carried out effectively, so as to disseminate new concepts and developments. At the ELC Professional Center, we ensure the final translated document reflects the meaning of the original document.

Our translators pay close attention to the specialized vocabulary, specific terminology, jargon and abbreviations used in IT and telecommunication sectors, thus, the original message is preserved, all while making it clear for your target audience of the company.

In this field, we offer translation services for the following documents:

- Technical manuals,
- Technical documents,
- Manuals,
- Software applications,
- Contracts,
- Tenders,
- etc.

Our translation services are fast and reliable, all while maintaining your confidentiality.

Our skills:

- We have the language skills and technical expertise required to translate technical documents.
- We understand the nuances of the language while effectively conveying the message of the source document.
- We believe in fast, accurate and competent translations.