

ECONOMIC AND FINANCIAL TRANSLATION

When translating in the economic and financial fields, we must take into account the jargon used is highly specific, and this requires the expertise of professionals who were properly trained and who have a certain experience, so that you can confront the complexities related to decision-making documents.

Our translators are professionals in whom we trust. Their years of experience enable them to put their skills to use when it comes to translating economic and financial documents.

We are aware that a source text and the final product (translated document) contain many differences and this can bring forth various interpretations. Thus, it is imperative the translator masters the technical aspect of the mandate.

Of course, your documents will be kept confidential. We are able to translate any type of document: from simple business letters to larger annual reports.

You will receive a cost-effective translation of high quality. Here are some examples of financial or economic documents that we are able to translate:

- Accounting documents,
- business plans,
- Financial or annual reports,
- Budgets and budget forecasts,
- Financial statements,
- Profit and loss accounts,
- Cash statements,
- Activity presentations,
- Financial releases,
- Operational notes,
- Issuance of shares,
- Shareholders' pacts,
- Financial product sheets and documentation,
- Minutes of general meetings.